 numerous patrons of this little work, that the number for the coming year will be becoming at the usual time.
 The Business Directory has been thoroughly revised and corrected, and there have been some im-

 Almanac for 1849 equally as attractive as any of its predecessors.

 transcript of all the newspapers at Mount Pleasant

FOR CLEANSING TEETH.
 IN preparation of this article there is nothing more useful, and more pleasant, than the use of soap to the structure of the Teeth, as its elen-components precisely the possibility of injury to any of the properties entering into their composition. From its alkaline principle, it corrects the vitiation which at the mouth, whether arising from a decomposition of the enamel, or a decomposition of the solid matter, or a decomposition of the teeth and gums, by its removal, preserving the deposition of matter, causing the teeth to assume a clear surface, free from the usual stain at the junction of the same, congenial to the use of the vapors of fire, in virtue, resulting from the breath, the unpleasant odors usually attending the above disease.

 Bell and Birk of the McLean Asylum, and others, who would only give their views in accordance with the same, for the benefit of the public.
